Spring Convocation: The Honorary Degree Recipients

From Monday, 1 June, and lasting until Thursday, 4 June, The University of Alberta will hold its Spring Convocation for the Conferral of Degrees. In addition to the major exercise of graduation, by which the University formally certifies competence at a certain level of accomplishment, there is another major function for such Convocations. That function is to recognize the activities of people who have distinguished themselves by scholarship and by service to our community and mankind. This year is no exception. The Senate has met and five people, in widely different walks of life, have been invited to accept the honor of being awarded the University's highest distinction, the degree of Doctor of Laws.

Henry Viscardi Jr. has been awarded more than twelve honorary degrees and a glance at his background readily shows why The University of Alberta will follow suit.

Dr. Viscardi, President of the Human Resources Center in Albertson, Long Island, New York, and a champion of severely disabled people, will be conferred an Honorary Doctor of Laws degree on 1 June. The ceremony will take place in the Northern Alberta Jubilee Auditorium. Dr. Viscardi will also present the Convocation Address.

Born without legs and confined to a hospital for his first seven years, Dr. Viscardi has devoted his life to helping severely disabled people realize their full potential as human beings. The Human Resources Center, which he founded in 1952, has demonstrated that the disabled can be fully integrated into all phases of life from infant education to the most sophisticated of professional accomplishments.

Dr. Viscardi has been an adviser to every American President, since Franklin Roosevelt, on the affairs of that nation's disabled. It is Dr. Viscardi's belief that there really are no disabled people, only people—with varying degrees of ability, not disability. As a consultant, Dr. Viscardi participated in the planning of the Western Industrial Research and Training Centre in Edmonton. He also served as a resource person for the Phoenix Training and Development Foundation in this University's Faculty of Education.

Among the institutions that have honored Dr. Viscardi are Sung Kyun Kwan University in Seoul, Korea, and the Royal Society of Arts in Great Britain. The National Rehabilitation Association presented him with its highest honor, the President's Award Medal, and he was the first layman to receive the American Medical Association Award of Honor.

Dr. Viscardi's international contribution includes missions to India, Egypt, Scandinavian countries, Australia, and Western Europe. He has written nine books and his numerous magazine articles and technical papers on rehabilitation and special education have been published in more than twenty-five languages.

Joe Shoctor

Joe Shoctor, founder and President of Edmonton's Citadel Theatre, will be on stage in a new role on 2 June when he is to be awarded the University's honorary degree and give the Convocation Address.

Born and raised in Edmonton, Mr. Shoctor graduated from The University of Alberta in 1947 with Bachelor of Laws and Bachelor of Arts degrees.

A barrister and solicitor by profession, his foremost avocation is the theatre. His interest was kindled when he originated, produced, and directed Victoria High School Varieties. Mr. Shoctor was active in drama and musicals while attending university and subsequently became an impresario of entertainment in western Canada in the early 1950s. Broadway beckoned in the 1960s and he achieved a number of credits, one being co-producer of Nicol Williamson's Hamlet. He was Chairman (Campaign and Building) for the (new) Citadel Theatre in 1975-76: the theatre's main auditorium is known as The Shoctor Theatre. Mr. Shoctor served on the Board of Governors of the National Theatre School of Canada and was an honorary governor of the Dominion Drama Festival.

Sports—he was the first secretary-manager of the Edmonton Eskimos—and community endeavors are also long-time interests to which Mr. Shoctor has devoted much time and effort.

The lengthy list of awards he has received includes the Queen's Silver Jubilee Medal, Member of the Order of Canada, and the State of Israel Prime Minister's Medal.

Randall Ivany

Randall Ivany will be conferred an honorary Doctor of Laws degree on the third day of Spring Convocation, 3 June. He will also deliver the Convocation Address.

Dr. Ivany is in his second, five-year term of office as the Legislative Ombudsman for the Province of Alberta. He has been extremely active in the position, one example being the initiation of plans in 1977 for the first International Ombudsman Institute. The institute is now in operation at this University's Faculty of Law.

Earlier, Dr. Ivany hosted the first International Ombudsman Conference in Edmonton and was elected chairman of the International Ombudsman Steering Committee. In this capacity he has travelled throughout the world and introduced Ombudsman legislation to several governments.

A native of Newfoundland, Dr. Ivany received his high school and university education in Toronto. After earning a degree in electrical engineering, he worked for Canadian Westinghouse before taking up the study of theology at the University of Toronto and St. Augustine's College in England.

He was ordained in the Anglican Church and served parishes in Calgary, Red Deer, and Oklahoma City. He was elected Dean of Edmonton, and Rector of All Saints' Cathedral in 1969. Dr. Ivany received his Doctor of Divinity degree from the University of Toronto in 1973.

Dr. Ivany was instrumental in the founding of the Canadian College of Preachers and, in 1973, he initiated the development of the first senior citizens' highrise apartments in downtown Edmonton. Upon relinquishing his duties as Dean, Dr. Ivany was appointed a Canon of the Diocese by the Bishop of Edmonton.

He is the co-author of a book on the history of the Anglican Church in Alberta. In 1977, Dr. Ivany received the Queen Elizabeth Commemorative Silver Medal.

Isobel M. Robinson

A lady who has devoted some fifty years to the practice of occupational therapy will be awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree at Spring Convocation.

Isobel M. Robinson will receive her degree and present the Convocation Address 4 June.

Professor Robinson has recently retired as Director of Occupational Therapy at the University of Toronto. During her tenure, she developed a continuing education program that, while originally intended for local practitioners, developed into a series of seminars that attracts therapists from across the country.

A native of Hamilton, Ontario, Professor Robinson received a Bachelor of Arts degree from her hometown university, McMaster. Upon graduation she was employed at the Ontario Hospital in Toronto as a staff therapist. In 1943, she began her teaching career in occupational therapy at the University of Toronto. She held all executive positions in the provincial occupational therapy association between 1940-50.

At the University of Toronto, Professor Robinson designed the occupational therapy curriculum and spearheaded the proposal for the awarding of Bachelor of Science degrees in occupational therapy. The proposal was implemented in 1970. As well, she created a degree-completion program within the evening credit framework, giving diploma level therapists an opportunity to upgrade their qualifications.

Professor Robinson was honored in 1973 by the awarding of life membership in the Canadian Association of Occupational Therapists. She is an historian of occupational therapy in Canada, and is working with members of The University of Alberta's occupational therapy department to produce a videotaped history of occupational therapy. The project is a University of Alberta 75th Anniversary project.

Romuald Wolikowski

General Wolikowski, a man who was instrumental in discovering and releasing 100,000 Polish prisoners during World War II, will receive the honorary DLitt on 4 June.

General Wolikowski was born 89 years ago in a small town in the Russian sector of partitioned Poland. He received his education in military and preparatory and secondary schools before graduating in 1913 from the Military Academy in Moscow with the rank of second lieutenant.

During World War I, he was in the Russian Tsarist Army and transferred to the Polish Army in 1917. During the Russian invasion of Poland in 1920, he was chief of staff of the 5th Polish Army under General Sikorski. Afterwards he was appointed an Infantry Brigade Commander and was successful in some important military operations. He was awarded several military decorations including the highest Polish decoration, the "virtuti militari" Cross.

Between the two world wars, he was the Polish Military Attaché in Moscow and later served as a military observer during the Spanish Civil War. In 1940-41, General Wolikowski was involved in the establishment of Polish military training facilities in France and Scotland.

He was named head of the Polish Military Mission at the outbreak of World War II and it was in this capacity that he was able to learn of the whereabouts of about 100,000 Polish prisoners in the Soviet Union and subsequently secure their release under the Polish-Soviet Treaty.

General Wolikowski emigrated to Canada in 1947. He lived in Ontario, then moved to Calgary for a short time before establishing permanent residence in Edmonton. Since coming to Alberta, he has been extremely active in the Polish new-Canadian community helping his fellow countrymen adjust to a new land. □

World University Games Appointments

The names of five volunteer Directors and seven out of nine Vice-Presidents have been announced by the Universiade 83 Edmonton Corporation. These people will serve on the Organizing Committee for the games in 1983.

The Directors are: E.B. Allan (Finance), M. Andrekson (Special Events), C.H. Annable (Operations), P. Henning (Communications), and E.N. Williams (Facilities). The Vice-Presidents so far appointed are: R. Calhoun (Protocol and Culture), K.L. Crosby (Communications), D.N. McColl (Administration), M. Smith (Venues), W.E. Tatarchuk (Sports), R. Ferguson (City Liaison), and R. Macnab (University Liaison). The President is E.D. Zemrau.

Quite a few of the names presented here will be familiar to Folio readers. Ted Allan, for example, is Chairman of the Board of Governors Finance Committee, and Margaret Andrekson until very recently was a member of the Board and of the Senate. (Mrs. Andrekson still maintains close ties with the University; she is the Governors' representative on the University-wide 75th Anniversary Policy Group.)

Other familiar names include

Rita Calhoun, also a past Senate member and an alumna of the University (BSc Nursing); Murray Smith, seconded from his position in the Department of Movement Education; Ross Macnab, until recently Associate Dean of the Faculty of Physical Education and Recreation; Hank Tatarchuk, Assistant to the Dean of Physical Education and Recreation; and, of course, Ed Zemrau, a Professor here since 1968.

Chuck Annable is a former President of the Edmonton Construction Association. Pat Henning has served as President of the Edmonton Kinsmen Club and Chairman of the Alberta Alcohol and Drug Abuse Commission. Erskine Williams, Major in the Supplementary Reserve of the Canadian military service, is a director of five major corporations. Karl Crosby is a public relations expert, former Director of Tourism for the Yukon and, most recently, Executive Director of the Whistler Resort Association. Don McColl is a former General Manager of the Derrick Golf and Winter Club and Executive Director of the Intercontinental Cup Baseball Tournament. Ron Ferguson was Commonwealth Games Planning Coordinator for the City of Edmonton. □

Faculty of Engineering Sponsors Conference

A conference entitled "Technological Opportunities in a Resource Economy" will be held on Tuesday, 2 June 1981, at the Edmonton Plaza Hotel. It is hoped that the conference will provide a focus for efforts to develop secondary industry in Alberta. The first of the four sessions will be devoted to a description of the processes and the problems involved in natural resource development. It is expected that a number of opportunities that exist now for the application of new technology will be highlighted. The second session will illustrate applications of technology in primary industry and the third and fourth sessions will examine the mechanisms that are already in place to support technological developments that may be of interest to the natural resource industries.

Although the Faculty of Engineering has taken the lead in sponsoring the Conference as a sequel to its June 1978 "Research and Industrial Development in Alberta" conference, many other groups are involved in various aspects of the conference. In addition to the on-campus support from the Management Advisory Institute and the Faculty of Extension, the conference is also sponsored by various departments at city, provincial, and federal levels of government. The Alberta Research Council, the Alberta Oil Sands Technology and Research Authority (AOSTRA), the Edmonton Research and Development Park, the Alberta Chamber of Resources, the Athabasca Research Corporation, Syncrude (Canada) Ltd., and the Association of Professional Engineers, Geologists, and Geophysicists of Alberta (APEGGA) are also supporting the conference. The registration fee is $100 and full details about the conference are available from W. (Bill) Stewart of the Management Advisory Institute (432-2225 or 432-2718). □

Ayling To Receive McCalla Professorship

Ronald Ayling of the Department of English has been selected as a recipient of an Arthur G. McCalla Research Professorship. His tenure of the Professorship will begin this coming September.

Dr. Ayling, who graduated from the University of Nottingham in 1956 (BA) and was awarded the PhD by the University of Bristol in 1969, is a highly accomplished littérateur. His PhD thesis was titled The Dramatic Artistry of Sean O'Casey: Theme and Form in the Abbey Plays, and this is an interest that he has pursued ever since, publishing in 1976 Continuity and Innovation in Sean O'Casey's Drama: A Critical Monograph (Salzburg Studies in Literature 23) and, with M.J. Durkan, Sean O'Casey: A Bibliography (London, 1978; Seattle, 1979). During his time as McCalla Professor, Dr. Ayling intends to bring to completion the first stage of a detailed and wide ranging biography of the Irish dramatist, from his birth in 1880 until he left Ireland in 1926.

Dr. Ayling is uniquely qualified to write about the celebrated son of the Abbey Theatre. For many years before O'Casey's death in 1964, the two men, scholar and playwright, had been very closely associated; after O'Casey's death it was Dr. Ayling who performed the exacting duties of literary executor.

The work now underway has been a long time in the coming, as Dr. Ayling freely admits. The close, almost filial relationship that existed between Ayling and O'Casey has made an objective assessment of the dramatist and his place—not only in the literary world as such but also in the world of men—a difficult task to take up. That "gestation period" is now over, however, and the project is far advanced.

Perhaps the last statement on Dr. Ayling's project should come from the biographer himself: "A good literary biography is, inevitably, a history of the subject's life and times as well as a study of the growth of his art and his mind. As a young man O'Casey took an active and prominent part in many of the most momentous social, political, and cultural movements to be found in Britain (let alone Ireland) in the last two decades of the nineteenth century and the first three decades of the present century.

"Ireland's tumultuous baptism into many horrors that were to become major and recurrent twentieth-century experiences throughout the world (the dilemmas and traumas consequent upon colonial rule, anti-colonial agitation and revolt, guerrilla and civil warfare, industrial strife on a large scale, for example) give that country's recent history significance well beyond its national boundaries. A biography of Sean O'Casey involves exploration of universal themes and problems, transcending local issues (though firmly grounded in Dublin life and its distinctive idiom), and includes a study of Irish underground nationalist organizations, the founding and consolidation of the first Irish trade unions for unskilled workers, and the complex series of events that led to the Easter Week Rising of 1916 as well as the subsequent creation of the modern state of Ireland." □

Different Rate of Exchange

It took more than pennies from heaven for the Department of Political Science to conduct successfully the second half of a student exchange program. The Department recently hosted seventeen honors political science students from the University of Western Ontario and, having received dollars from earthly sources, realized a program that elicited numerous positive comments from the visitors.

Since reporting that the Winspear Foundation, Pocklington Financial Corporation Ltd., and the Political Science Undergraduate Association and the Faculty of Arts of The University of Alberta contributed funding to the week-long program, Folio has learned that travel costs were paid through the Department of the Secretary of State, Open House Canada Program, in cooperation with the Canadian Bureau for International Education, and that the Alberta Division of the Bank of Montreal helped fund the program. □

Public Hearings on Noise

Speak up (60 or so decibels), shout out (90 dB) your concerns to the Public Advisory Committee's ad hoc Committee on noise. The Environment Council of Alberta wants to listen to you, and will do so in a series of public meetings to be held from 9 to 26 June 1981.

To help citizens assess the impact of noise in our environment, the ECA has prepared several booklets and brochures, as well as technical reports, for distribution to the public. These are attractive and full of information and are free of charge. The brochures have the titles "Terms of Reference," "Noise: Transportation Noise," "Noise: Planning Considerations," "Noise: Economic Aspects," and "Noise: Around the Home." The bulletins are "Noise in Alberta," "Administration and Regulation of Noise in Alberta," "Noise in the Workplace," "Noise is a Health Hazard," and, a consultant's report, "Economic Aspects of Noise." The technical reports are in two volumes and are titled "Noise in the Human Environment."

If you are interested in receiving any of these publications, or wish to attend the hearings (the one on 9 June will be held in the Jubilee Auditorium), please contact the Environment Council of Alberta, at 2100 College Plaza, Tower 3, 8215 112 Street, Edmonton, Alberta T6G 2M4. The University is represented on the ad hoc Committee by Pat Seymour, Director of the Devonian Botanic Garden. His telephone number is 987-3054. □

people

R.G. Rompkey, English, presented a paper at the eighteenth-century seminar in the Institute of Historical Research, London, England, on 13 May entitled "The 'Poet Laureate' of the Yorkes: Soame Jenyns, Politician and Miscellaneous Writer."

James A. Plambeck, Chemistry, presented the annual banquet lecture of the McGill/Montreal Chapter of Sigma Xi, The Scientific Research Society, on "Electrochemistry of Antitumor Antibiotics" 14 April. More technical talks on the same subject were presented to the Department of Chemistry, Université de Montréal 15 April and the Department of Chemistry, UQAM 16 April. The work presented has resulted from an ongoing collaborative study between the laboratories of Dr. Plambeck and those of J.W. Lown, Chemistry. Its object is to further understanding of the oxidation-reduction behavior and mode of action of those antitumor antibiotics which interact with cellular DNA.

P. Krishnan, Sociology, attended the Canadian Conference in Applied Statistics, Statistics '81 Canada organized by the Department of Mathematics, Concordia University, 29 April to 1 May 1981 and presented a paper on mortality transition as a stochastic process.

N.M. Lal, Population Research Laboratory, Sociology, chaired a session, "Applications in Criminology," at the twelfth annual Pittsburgh Conference on Modeling and Simulation, 30 April to 1 May 1981. Dr. Lal also presented a paper on a Poisson approximation of the crime process. Another paper contributed to the same conference was on a working life model of criminal careers, prepared by P. Krishnan and H. Rosenbaum, Sociology, and V. Sacco of Simon Fraser University.

Positions Vacant

Programmer/Analyst Office of the Registrar

A Programmer/Analyst (Level II or III) is needed in the Office of the Registrar to aid in the design and implementation of computer systems which will assist the staff to carry out their various tasks more efficiently and effectively. The Programmer/Analyst will be involved, in part, with a large on-going project but will also be involved with smaller independent projects. He or she will work closely with the Registrar's Office staff in the design of systems and will interact with both the Office of Administrative Systems and the Department of Computing Services. The computing environment in which these offices operate is sophisticated and is oriented heavily toward the use of terminals and complex data bases.

Qualifications preferred are knowledge and experience with COBOL and JCL and some familiarity with IBM systems. The ability to write GIS programs would be an asset but this can be learned on the job. Training in the use of other software, particularly IMS, will be provided.

Starting level and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. The University offers a comprehensive employee benefits package and is an equal opportunities employer.

Applicants should contact Dr. W.A. Blanchard, 201 Administration Building, The University of Alberta, T6G 2M7 (telephone 432-3723).

Manager

The University of Alberta Hospitals require immediately a mature person to act as Manager of a hospital gift and flower shop. Six hours daily, Monday to Friday. Experience and references required. Salary negotiable.

Please send résumé to: Employment Office, University of Alberta Hospitals, 8440 112 Street, Edmonton, Alberta T6G 2B7.

Administrative Professional Officer

The Design and Construction Office requires a professional administrative person to work in planning, budgeting and supervising the design and construction of new and renovation capital projects. Applicants should hold professional/technical qualifications and relevant experience in the field of Facilities Development, including management and administrative experience in coordinating various elements of a project. Salary range: $27,000-$41,800. Contact T.C. Miner, Director, Design and Construction Office, 480 General Services Bldg., The University of Alberta, Edmonton, Alberta T6G 2H1. Telephone: 432-4966.
